WREELING NAILERS GET WORK Rours Are Disstarged-Reason Given by the Company-Glass Trouble

> There was a little episode at the Bellaire nail factory vesterday forenoon which was the subject of some comment last evening among nailers and the few other people who had heard of it. Yesterday morning eight Wheeling nailers, idle on account of the strike here, went down to Bellaire on the strike here, went down to Beliaire on the first boat, taking their dinners with them, to go to work in the factory there, where they had secured jobs. About 11 o'clock one of them was approached by the Chairman of the factory committee, who told him the Wheeling men would all have to quit work, and asked him to in-form the others.

This statement naturally aroused some curiosity, and the committee said that the order had been issued by the mill company, the officers of which were actuated by a desire to avoid giving any further offense to the Wheeling mill owners.

As they did not desire to be the cause of trouble, the Wheeling men quit work and came home, but feeling pretty, sore over the result of their employment there. The men agreed to keep the matter out of the papers, and endeavored to do so.
